CANADIAN PACIFIC CROP REPORT

WINNIPEG—With every portion of the prairie provinces receiving liberal rainfall during the past week, crop conditions throughout the entire west are all that could be desired, according to the weekly crop report issued here today from the Agricultural Department of the Canadian Pacific Railway. In Southwest Alberta where rain was most needed some districts had as much as forty-eight hours precipitation. Crops show better promise than they have done at this time for many years. The young grain is uniformly strong and vigorous, and there are very few "spotted" areas to be seen. So far little damage has been reported from worms or grubs of any kind. Due to previous dry spells outbreaks were expected but this has not been the case, as only in a few districts have they made their appearance. Due to lack of moisture earlier spring weeds did not germinate and weeds are not very apparent in fields. Grain now has good root over in the possible weed growth but this will develop. Recent frosts did not appear to have caused any damage to field crops and only small amount to gardens. Grass is abundant everywhere and cattle thriving.

General prospects have been improved with rains last week, so far the rainfall that no point in the province reports lack of moisture. With seedling completed crop went in under ideal conditions. In many instances on lower and heavier lands farmers complaining of water lying in fields. Cool weather prevailing shows just report given grain every chance to root out well, and stand above ground in very strong and sturdy. The spirit of the surprise was stand up better should extremely hot dry weather develop later. Wheat averages from six to eight inches above ground. No damage reported from soil drifting, farmers getting well on with summer fallowing and are in an optimistic frame of mind.

A. C. PETERS APPOINTED NASH EXPORT SALES PROMOTION MANAGER

KENOSHA, Wis. — Announcement is made by Mr. H. M. Salisbury, Export Sales Manager of The Nash Motors Company of the appointment of A. C. Peters as Export Sales Promotion Manager, effective May 1st. Previous to joining the Nash organization, Mr. Peters was associated for thirteen years with Packard; three years as their travelling foreign representative, and the last three years as Sales and Advertising Manager of the Packard Motors Export Corporation of New York City.

During the last six years Mr. Peters has devoted his entire efforts to automobile merchandising in the export field; his record being one of unusually successful achievement. His experience is richly diversified and embraces more than twenty years of extensive travel and dealer contact. In more than forty-seven countries, including a thorough knowledge of the problems of automobile dealer organization, gained through practical sales experience for various motor car companies both here and abroad.

The addition of Mr. Peters to the export staff of The Nash Motors Company comes at a time when that company is inaugurating a policy of export expansion to eclipse existing records, which in the month of September, have established the greatest export sales in Nash history.

GEO. H. HUTTON DIES SUDDENLY IN MONTANA

The death of Geo. H. Hutton, of the Canadian Pacific Natural Resources, very suddenly while on a trip to Montana, created the keenest regret among the people of Strathmore. It was an outstanding man, not only in the Service, but as one of the leading Agriculturists of Canada, whose place will be hard to fill for many a day.

He was one of the most prominent of the Calgary Rotarians, into whose work he gave most freely of his time and ability.

He was very closely associated with Mr. Geo. H. Jones, of Strathmore, who lost his death very keenly.

Mr. Hutton is survived by his wife, three sons and one daughter.

The funeral was conducted in Calgary and the interment took place at Lacombe.

$40,000 to be Expended in Great Drive

Edmonton—Appointment of 15 of the 16 noxious weed inspectors to lead the campaign of extermination against weeds of all descriptions in the province was announced by Hon. George Hoadley, minister of agriculture, following the recommendation of the Provincial Advisory Weed committee of which H. A. Craig, deputy minister of agriculture, is chairman.

The appointments, with their districts, are as follows: A. A. Barry, East Edmonton; Frank Stevens, West Edmonton; J. D. Foster, Vegreville; James Davies, Grande Prairie; A. H. Ward, Sexsmith; T. H. Taylor, Waskerville; N. P. Bell, Red Deer; K. Walker, Stettler; G. W. Lawrence, Drumheller; Donald Cameron, R. Calgary; S. F. Irving, Glendon; W. S. Smith, High River; Lawrence Knott, Claresholm; George Ingram, Lethbridge, and O. R. Younger, Raymond.

One to be Named

The 16th supervisor will be appointed for a district comprising the Wainwright-Sedgewick-Provost area which is now being organized into local improvement districts.

In addition to Mr. Craig the Advisory Board consists of: W. J. Stephen, field crops commissioner; George Bennett, Manville, representing the wheat pool; H. G. H. Schofield, Calgary, representing the United Farmers of Alberta; Edward Fischbein, Spruce Grove, representing the Union of Alberta Municipalities; Clyde Gillies, Strathmore, representing unorganized farmers; F. H. Reed, Edmonton, representing the Farmers' Union; and D. H. Bark, Brooks, Alberta Seed Growers' Association.

Every effort will be made to have the campaign carried out along educational lines, said the minister, and only in extreme cases where educational and advisory measures failed would resort be made to those provisions of the Noxious Weeds Act which entail prosecution.

With the expenditure of from $40,000 to $50,000 on this campaign and the appointment of 16 supervisors the noxious weed battle was assuming large proportions and the efforts of the board undoubtedly would have a stimulating effect on all farmers in whose interests it was to eradicate weeds of all kinds.

DEATH OF RALPH ROBSON

Tuesday evening Ralph Robson, who has been invalid for the past three years, died at his home, aged 71 years.

Mr. Robson came to Canada from Ogden, Utah, in 1904, settling for a time at Gleichen, and in the fall of 1908 came to Strathmore district, where he has since resided.

He is survived by his wife, two daughters, one Mrs. Jensen living in Boise City, and Beale at home, and one son, Wilfred, at home. W. P. Robson, of Chazy, is a brother.

Mr. Robson, for some years, was on the C.P.R. staff at Watermanston.

He was a member of the Mormon Church.

The sympathy of the people of the district is extended to the members of his family.

The funeral will be conducted by C. W. Chase to the Union Church on Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock. When services will be conducted by Bishop Shepard, of Calgary.

The pallbearers will be six nephews of deceased, Jesse and Harold Stead and Charlie, Lee, Keith and Romeo Robson, of Chazy.

ALBERTA DAIRY COMMISSIONER TO ATTEND WORLD'S CONGRESS

Alberta will be represented at the World's Dairy Congress which opens in London, England, on June 25, by Dr. C. T. Marker, Dairy Commissioner for the Province. Dr. Marker is scheduled to be one of the outstanding authorities in dairy work on the continent, and his efforts have been largely responsible for the high position secured and held by Alberta dairy products in both domestic and export markets. His assistance to Danish people in western Canada was recognized some few years ago by his appointment as Danish vice-consul for Alberta and by having the title Knight of Dannebrog conferred on him by the King of Denmark, and the University of Alberta in 1924 conferred on him the honorary degree of LL.D. in recognition of his services to the agricultural industry in the province. Following the Congress, Dr. Marker will visit a number of points in the British Isles and in Denmark, and expects to bring back information which will be of benefit to Alberta's dairy industry.

ALBERTA GOVERNMENT CROP REPORT

Issued by Department of Agriculture, Government of Alberta.

EDMONTON—Crops throughout the province have been greatly benefited by rains which have fallen over a large area during the past week, according to telegraphic reports received on Friday by the Department of Agriculture. While the situation had not generally become acute, rains were urgently needed in a number of districts in the Province. The situation of the wheat crop has been improved by the rains, but the yield will be reduced in a number of districts as a result of the dry period.

Soil drifting has been checked in the southern part of the Province where some damage of this kind had occurred of late. In some cases germinating much more uniformly with the additional moisture in the soil. Early crops are now covering the ground in many districts and will make the best use of the soil moisture. Alfalfa on irrigated land is reported to be doing exceptionally well. Fall wheat and fall rye are in the south, but the yield will be reduced in a number of districts as a result of the dry period.

In the central and northern sections of the Province all crops on summer-fallow have made good growth, but those on fall and spring plowing are somewhat patchy in a number of cases. Seeding of cereals grain is practically completed with the exception of green feed. Following the recent rainfall additional acreage is being seeded to oats and barley on land which would have been fallowed if the dry weather had continued, and there is every indication that the total acreage in crop in the Province will show an increase over the year 1927 in spite of the small amount of rainfall during the year.

Crops in the Peace River district have made rapid growth and are showing good promise. An increase of from 12 to 15 per cent, in crop acreage is reported this year in the north, largely due to the clearing of new land cleared and brought under cultivation. Wireworms are doing considerable damage in some sections of the Peace River, but losses are reported to be no heavier on the average than in previous years. Tree growth has suffered heavily from the attacks of caterpillars in some districts east and south of Edmonton. Pastures which were in need of rain are showing new growth and livestock is generally in good condition.

Poor Dying In Scotland In a Sad State

The truth of Messrs Thompson and Griev's remarks about the decline of Scotland will be all too readily admitted by those who have been in the country. As these two penetrating and sagacious writers (Scots the two of them) point out, Scotland has been going to seed for centuries; but there has been no genuine intellectual achievement since the fifteenth century. The whole rest of Scotland, alas, is at the disposal of Messrs Thompson and Griev; they have no trouble at all to find the evidence that proves their case. Scotland is a dying land.

The first piece of proof that might be taken is in the field of politics. Victoria came to the throne in 1837 and the great Victorian era began. From 1837, to the year 1928, there have been fifteen Prime Ministers in Great Britain, and when we examine the record we find that out of the fifteen only seven of them were Scotch; less than half; a miserable showing indeed. Had Scotland not been on the decline fourteen of these Prime Ministers at the very least should have been Scotchmen.

"Nothing of intellectual worth," says Sir Griev, "has been produced in Scotland since the fifteenth century when the poet Dunbar was writing. It is all too just a complaint. Sir Walter Scott, as everyone knows, made history into romance and was not careful with his English; although even with these failings he had—and has—a certain success. Adam Smith, indeed, wrote 'The Wealth of Nations' which is still well known, but if Adam had not been a deceiving Scotsman, might have climbed to real heights and written at least as great a work as Albert Humpday's Scrap Book. It is the same with David Hume; even also critics say he had as good a brain as Kant's; but had Hume not been born in the dying town of Edinburgh he would certainly have been better than the whole Kant family.

These are only three cases which Messrs Griev and Thompson might cite as proof of Scotland's intellectual decline. There are many more. James Watt, for example, perfected the steam engine, but poor James, too, sprung from a dying race he would undoubtedly have gone right on and invented the internal combustion oil engine. There are the cases of Boswell, another poor James, and poor old Hugh Miller, who began in the leather and became a geologist of a sort—the sort who are immortal; and there was James Simpson, who discovered chloroform, and who, I might say, discovered a whole lot more had he not also been from the moribund city of Edinburgh.

It is saddening to look over the names of the unfortunate men who might have really made a figure in the history of the world.

SPORT NOTES

"OLD POP TIME" LOST COUPLE DECISION TO AGED ATHLETES

NEW YORK—The guy that said "They don't come back" is taking them on the chin regularly here of late. Although every rule is proved by its exceptions, the age-old axiom that athletes never come back after once slipping from the heights, is being refuted so frequently that many of us are beginning to doubt its soundness.

The case of Walter Hagen, who recently won the British Open Golf championship, after being declared through by almost every critic of the sport, stands out as the most sensational comeback of the year.

AGED VETERANS OF Baseball Return
In baseball this year there are almost a score of aged veterans who are hitching up their belts and proving to the world they are as good as they ever were.

Joe Hauser, after receiving a most serious knee injury a couple of years ago, was considered "all washed up." He was out of the game all last summer and the fickle fans had almost forgotten him.

This year he is back with a bang, keeping the Babe humming for the home run honors of the American league and playing the lag with as much ease as good as new.

Neuf With Cubs
Art Neuf hero of several world series, looked like a lost cause last year in the uniform of the Cincinnati Reds. This year he is sporting the spangly of the Chicago Cubs and is looking the better of his age.

Joe Bush of the Athletics has been trying to comeback ever since he was cut loose from the New York Yankees. From all indications he is going to turn the trick this year, and as a member of the team with which he first won fame and the moniker "Burr Joe."

Joe Ray, once the greatest of American millers, had to give up the hope of making the 1928 American Olympic team as a middle-distance runner and everyone thought he was through. But Ray said he would go to Amsterdam as a marathoner and in his first race over the cruel distance he finished second in the classic Boston marathon.

FYLE STANDS TO MAKE A FORTUNE

NEW YORK—For a man who has just lost $75,000 on a foot race of his own design, Charles C. Fyle is in remarkably good luck.

When word first reached New York that Fyle couldn't pay the $15,000 in prizes to ten winners of his first race, Los Angeles to New York marathon, the public began to make more than passive interest in the outcome of the race he had bet on.

"Fyle can't pay," the head lines read and the public began to vision the financial collapse of a party including Prof. J. P. Backville of the University of Alberta; Prof. A. M. Shaw of the University of Saskatchewan, and W. H. J. Tisdale, assistant manager of the Canadian Wool Growers' Association, has started a survey of sheep ranches in the three western provinces. A study is being undertaken of the advance made by ranches in improving the quality of their wool clip by selective breeding, and this field survey will be preliminary to a series of laboratory tests to determine the relation between breeding and the improvement of the fleece.

And How
Here are some of the ways Fyle expects to start the gold flowing his way.

Testimonial advertising, $75,000. (Payne and others including national products.)

Andrew Payne's personal appearance, and one motion picture $100,000. He is already booked for three Oklahoma fairs.

Eddie Gardner, Seattle, Washington, negro, $50,000, playing colored motion picture houses and vaudeville houses.

John Sato, Pacific, N.Y., Finn, who finished second $25,000, from personal appearances.

Fyle's foot race, for all feet malade, is a box $100,000 or more.

Twenty-six hour relay races between winners in Madison Square Garden, $20,000. Other cities, $20,000.

Two Year Contracts
Fyle has all of the winners aligned to two-year contracts whereby they split the earnings 50-50.

When the Boston Braves secured Hornsby from the Giants they certainly made a constructive move. Not only did they secure a batting, hitting and enthusiasm of a real player, but they obtained a manager who can draw on several sources of supply for players and coaches. Only Hornsby could have properly recommended Bell for the Braves, and his latest addition is John A. Schorner, a former pitcher and more recently a coach at the St. Louis Nationals. Schorner has been in professional baseball for 15 years, and as Samuel Brandon, manager of the Cardinals, said when he got him to help Hornsby as Cardinal manager, "He is a smart, clever ball player."

It was the Boston Braves that spoiled Cincinnati's pennant aspirations in the season of 1926 down the line. With the Reds leading the league they are now in Boston for a series. The Braves are right in form now and the Reds may find them a difficult job to defeat. It may be that the Braves will force them out of the lead.

Stonewall started off to hit for the Braves as though he meant business. He played in the four games against the Phillies and made seven hits in three at bats and was on base three times. Three of his hits were doubles and one a home run. That sounds like the slugger who batted over .400 in 1922.

Griffin Gills, Washington infielder, was released outright to the Minneapolis club of the American Association, and Clayton Van Alstyne, a pitcher, was sent to the Millers on a tryout Thursday, a deal which will deliver Kenna, star Minneapolis catcher, to the Senators as a trade.

Eladio Kenna, formerly catcher for the Senators, has been sold by Minneapolis to Washington.

CAN TOMMY ROGERS COME BACK AS LIGHTWEIGHT?

Tommy Rogers, in speaking to the Standard, is very enthusiastic about his comeback in the big roped arena, but not as a welterweight, which championship for Western Canada he has lost in the lightweight, which weight Tommy maintains suits him to a nicety. He says the 147 boys are too strong for him, but he thinks that Mel Corrie would just about make appeasement.

Rogers feels that a lot of the fans in Alberta think he is getting old for the game, but they are wrong. He is now 29 years old, and has been fighting since he was nineteen years old. He has never been defeated, and has won three titles overseas.

Rogers held two titles in England in 1921, lightweight and welterweight of the eastern counties. Since being in Canada he has held the British Columbia championship and Western Canada at 147, and has never been anyone; fighting them as heavy as 163 pounds, which his record will prove. He has had seventy-three bouts in three and a half years, winning 21 on points, 11 on K.O.'s, 15 draws, losing 2 on K.O.'s and 7 on points, the remaining three being no decisions. He feels that he is good for another four years, and means to tuck a lot more wins under his belt before he quits for good.

TORONTO THE GOOD
"MOST UNFRIENDLY"

TORONTO—"This is the most unfriendly city I have ever lived in—and I have lived in forty," Wilson Macdonald, Canadian poet, remarked last night to a newspaper reporter, after a meeting of the Social Service Council of Canada, where he had been present as a guest.

"I never saw a place so unfriendly—no simple thing wasn't friendly."

"Have you lived here long?" he was asked.

"I've been here about six or seven years, and I'm leaving soon."

"Where do you plan to go?"

"Back to the coast—in Vancouver—'tis more friendly there."

State Aid for Canadian Migrants

Montreal Le Devoir, the most readable of French-Canadian newspapers because it reflects the personality of its owner and founder, Henri Bourassa, has come out in vigorous support of the suggested policy that the public treasury should be called upon to move Canadians in the East to new homes in the West. After briefly explaining the plan of aiding residents of Quebec to establish themselves in new homes in the West, Le Devoir raises the point that objections to the plan will probably be based on two counts—firstly, "What good will such a movement do?" and secondly, "Will not such a plan tend to depopulate the province of Quebec?"

"The first objection," continues Le Devoir, "will disappear in the face of certain simple observations. What risk do you take in holding out special advantages to these people? If no one is going to profit by it, there will be no change in the situation and that is all. Such a viewpoint does not get at the bottom of the problem."

"There will be emigrants. They have set out in the past under far less arduous conditions, and the colonizing missionaries say that the number of applicants are more numerous than ever. Abbe Billeau writes that there are now hundreds of families who have presented themselves at our offices during the last few weeks seeking to settle in Saskatchewan and the cities either of Canada or of the United States. These families have been established for many centuries in country districts. They can become powerful factors for agricultural progress in our West and therefore factors working towards the prosperity of the whole Dominion. For this reason we ought to extend to them the same advantages that we shower with such a prodigal hand on strangers from abroad."

"It is a fact that we have a certain number of people who will leave the parishes of Quebec, whatever happens. By the improvement of living conditions and by the development of domestic industries everything possible is being done to keep these people on the soil which their ancestors till. This has been said and retold a score of times. However attractive we make the centres of colonization in Quebec, however we try to make these centres more and more accessible—and we have done this willingly and gladly—there is still bound to be some migratory movement."

"For a long time there will be many of our people who, attracted by our large urban centres and by the close ties of the American border, will go to the cities to establish themselves rather than remain in the older parishes or travel to the new centres of settlement in Quebec."

"It is for these people that an effort is being made to lighten the cost of the journey and to give them an opportunity of establishing themselves on the soil, in Canada."

"For their moral and physical health and for that of the generations to come after them as well. More than the benefit of the country as a whole, it is far better that the sons and daughters of our rural districts should establish themselves under reasonable conditions on land in our own West than that they should be swallowed up not only by the workshops of the United States but in our own factories in Eastern Canada."

"Some people hold up their hands in astonishment. 'Since when,' they ask, 'has any government aided in the migration of a section of its people from one part of its own territory to another?' Evidently the course is unusual and perhaps it is a complete novelty, but the conditions in our country are also out of the ordinary. Moreover, in the last analysis, is it any more remarkable to employ the resources of the country and its riches to favor and protect by means of tariffs and low freight rates a certain number of farmers than arbitrarily maintain by customs duties (the entire cost of which we ourselves bear) a certain number of factory workers? And, after all, is not the effect of these customs tariffs to stimulate migration into the interior?"

"There is too much confusion about the terms 'peopling' the country and 'immigration' although the latter is only one aspect of the former. We have for so long paid attention to the foreign elements that can be guided into the Canadian reservoir that we neglect to think that the home-born people, utilizing it in a real policy of 'peopling' the country."

"After all, a policy, like a tree, is judged by its fruits. Experience has demonstrated to us abundantly that millions of years of public mania are swallowed up in our policies of immigration which result in a dead loss. The time has come to seek an outlet for our surplus difficulties."

"We have a certain number of people who are on the point of leaving the country in order to settle in the cities either of Canada or of the United States. "MEN'S BETTER WEAR"

STORY OF NOAH'S ARK
UPHELD BY SPEAKER

Toronto—A much-argued passage of the Bible dealing with the Ark of Noah was the subject of Dr. Harry Rimmer's sermon at Arnette Street Baptist Church last evening. Dr. Rimmer is from California, where he is well known as a Bible teacher, evangelist, geologist and President of the Scientific Research Bureau, and in speaking of Noah and the Ark, he often referred to debates, thrust upon him by atheists in that distant State, as to the truth of the Bible, especially Noah's Ark.

Doubt Due to Ignorance.
"The reason that anyone should doubt the Bible is due to ignorance, or because they do not read it," he said. "They will ask you all kinds of questions about the Ark, and call it folklore, fable, because they can't understand how Noah got off the animal in the ship. They don't believe it was big enough, and yet when asked how big it was they do not know."

Dr. Rimmer furnished figures based on the old Assyrian method of measuring, which, he said, was the oldest in the world, and showed that the Ark was 500 feet long, 50 feet 8 inches wide and 50 feet 3 inches high, or 2,500,000 cu. feet. He said this would equal a train of 1,500 box cars, or 123 miles.

Much Room in Ark.
In dealing with the question as to the number of animals in the Ark, Dr. Rimmer told the congregation that it was unknown whether the flood was general and took in the whole earth, or whether it was local which meant Mesopotamia. He said there were many animals that did not need to be taken on board as they lived in the water or air. The world contained 2,500,000 species of animals, of which two-fifths lived in the water and 40 per cent. of the remainder lived in the air. In Mesopotamia there were only 77 species, he said, which meant in either case that there was lots of room in the Ark for the animals and for hay or grass to feed them.

In closing his sermon Dr. Rimmer mentioned that he would prove the truth of the building of the Ark without use of the Bible, at Wednesday night's meeting.

THIRTY COUPLES STAY IN CHICAGO DANCE MARATHON

CHICAGO, Ill.—Thirty couples arrived on in Chicago's endurance dance marathon, but their dancing was more or less confined to one spot.

The dance had been in progress 48 hours, with the present record of 125 hours a lone way ahead. A prize of $3,500 is offered to the winner of the contest.

The couples held the floor and swayed to the music, but there was none of the fast dancing which marked early hours of the marathon.

PLOWS 250 FURROWS AT ONCE

(Popular Science Monthly)

To those of us who believe that the power of mechanical agricultural instruments is now at its zenith, this dream of a giant cultivator that can cultivate and plant nine square miles a day is something in the nature of a shock. A vivid picture of a dinosaur cultivator is furnished by Popular Science Monthly.

Across the field, advancing at a speed of ten to fifteen miles an hour, sweeps a monster of iron and steel. Smoke belches from its funnel. On a tower platform 75 feet above the ground stands the captain, shouting orders that loud-speakers relay to the crew of thirty-six men. By levers that operate great pulleys and cables, he manipulates long arms that span a swath of more than 500 feet. Now the mechanical monster has roared past, and where there was only smooth earth, now the entire field is plowed in deep furrows.

Far from an idle dream, this is a picture of what may take place on the future farms in the very near future, according to Prof. E. L. Lyons of the Kansas State Agricultural College.

"This 400-ton giant," says Prof. Lyons, "is probably rather small compared to some of the monsters that will be used in agriculture when the age of man-made dinosaurs fully arrives."

By large-scale farming methods with these machines, millions of men will be released from labor for other useful work. Farmers will band together for cooperative use of such machines. In this way, Prof. Lyons' calculations convince him, their farms will yield more riches. Seven-eighths of the world's farming population will be freed for other forms of production.

Such a machine as Prof. Lyons' vision is a 6,000 horse power monster. One electric and two steam electric power plants will drive it, burning 5 tons of fuel an hour. At a speed of ten miles an hour it will cover a hundred ton pull—sufficient for the heaviest plowing combined with simultaneous harrowing, pulverizing and seeding.

One such machine could farm two townships or seventy-two square miles.

In use, the machine runs along a specially prepared thirty-foot runway traveling the middle of the field. Cultivator or plow arms hang in gangs from twelve-foot aprons on the underside of the immense bridge truck. Each apron has its own electric motor; an operator can instantly adjust the height of any gang or raise it to clear a fence. This occurs automatically when an obstruction is encountered by means of a local pilot that closes an electric circuit. The operator can also shut down any gang or advance it sideways to centre them on the rows. The machine can cultivate as many as seventy-three rows at once.

Although the giant tractor is conceived particularly to cultivate fields it can be adapted to smaller ones with its ingenious mechanism. Telephone wires restrain at fence height are easily straddled, but they are best carried in conduits under tractor roads. These roads will normally be 252 feet apart, the width of the tractor span, but if necessarily narrower the tractor can be run with only part of its tools lowered.

EX-PRISONER BUES

WARDEN FOR DAMAGES

Edmonton.—Alleging negligence and wanton carelessness, Henry Albert has filed suit in the supreme court for $25,000 against Warden McLean and Guard John Coleman of the provincial jail, Fort Saskatchewan, as the result of an injury suffered by him first mentioned while serving a term of imprisonment.

It is set forth in the statement of claim that on December 20 last, while plaintiff was serving a six months sentence passed by Judge Lees at Wetaskiwin on August 8, he was ordered by defendant Coleman to enter a pithy to separate a sow from her litter by seizing the animal by the tail, leg or otherwise. In attempting to do this, plaintiff alleged to be a savage beast, turned on plaintiff, gored and threw him to the ground, dislocating his right knee.

As a result of these injuries it is claimed that plaintiff was carried to his cell in the jail and remained there until released on January 17 last. He alleged that while he was visited by the jail doctor his injuries were improperly and insufficiently treated and that after his release from jail he had to be removed to the Royal Alexandra hospital where he remained under treatment from February 20 until May 30 when he incurred hospital expenses of $2.5 a day.

Plaintiff further claims that in entering the sty he was under definite orders of Coleman and was under further penalties for failure to obey.

FARMERS UNION MAKES URGENT CALL FOR CONVENTION

GREAT FALLS—In view of the continued vote of the president of the United States, of the McNary-Haugen bill, the Farmer's Union is issuing a call to their members to meet at Kansas City and put the matter squarely before the Republican national convention.

The call in this section comes direct from A. W. Hicker, secretary of the northwest division of the Farmers' Union, also secretary of the Canadian Federation of Farm organizations. It recites that a crisis has come to American agriculture. After six years of effort we have been unable to get the McNary-Haugen bill through congress to be met both with presidential veto. To repeal a bill over a veto requires two-thirds majority. We feel three votes short of this in the senate when the vote was taken May 25th, thus proving that we can get no farm relief without a man in the White House who will sign the bill.

The call asks that all interested in breeding farm an effort to be made in the agricultural conditions should get to Kansas City not later than the 15th of the convention opens June 12th, just nicely under way. The Farmers' Union are moving on to the big convention in thousands in an effort to get relief. They are determined, they say, if they are not granted a hearing at Kansas City, they will move on to Boston, Texas, where they will make an effort for relief at the Democratic convention where they believe they have more friends and less enemies.

The secretary urges that farmers everywhere call meetings, raise funds to defray expenses, arrange to go in autos, four in a car. Try to raise $100 for each car.

Governor Mullen of Nebraska has proposed that 100,000 farmers march on Kansas City and demand of the convention that the McNary-Haugen bill be endorsed in the Republican platform and a candidate named who will make a positive and definite pledge to sign the bill.

The Farmers' Union urges that every country the movement be represented. While they have not arranged for hotel accommodations, but plenty of space has been arranged, also plenty of eat will be supplied.

The above is a synopsis of a call that is being sent out all over the northwest by the Farmers' Union and the Corn Belt Federation.

WORK FIVE DAYS A WEEK

WINNIPEG—If you work in Manitoba you are entitled to 24 consecutive hours of rest each week, and Sunday is not counted on this schedule.

This is the new adventure into the realm of softened attitudes that is a gas today. At least this law was passed by the last session of the legislature. There are some exceptions, such as those employed in telegraph work, and those not usually employed more than five hours a day. One result is that golf courses around Winnipeg have been doubled in number in anticipation of this new play-time idea. Employers of labor say that they like it, but will have to see how it works out in actual practice.

BALLOON TIRE PATENT SUBJECT OF ACTION

DETROIT—Millions of dollars and the rights of the manufacturers throughout the country to make balloon tires are involved in an action started before Federal Judge Tuttle by the Motor Wheel Corporation of Detroit against the B. F. Goodrich Rubber Company of Akron, Ohio, over priority of patent rights.

The action, launched against the Goodrich company as one of a group of manufacturers in a test case, hinges on the contention of the defendant company that its tires are manufactured on an English patent, antedating that of Alden L. Putnam, Detroit inventor, whose process was brought by the Detroit Pressed Steel Company, infringement was served the same year.

An affidavit from A. E. Marks set forth that he was an officer of the Diamond Rubber Company of Akron in 1910, in which year he obtained for his company the right to manufacture Palmer tires, a British product, in this country. The defendant company contends that this tire was manufactured as the Diamond Silver-Tone Tire, the manufacturing rights being acquired by the Goodrich Company.

Defense counsel contended that this tire was in use in the United States in 1910, and challenged all claims that it infringed the Putnam patent.

SWALLOW CHINA IN PACKAGE OF CEREAL

MONTREAL—After complaining of severe pains in his abdomen, Joseph Corbier, aged 59, was operated on at the Montreal general hospital and doctors removed a triangle shaped chip of china from his digestive system. He died a day later.

Witnesses at the inquest on Saturday told Corbier's wife that Corbier had bought a package of cereal which contained a "complimentary" saucer. The saucer arrived in a date good condition with bits chipped off here and there. Later the victim ate a bowl of the cereal. He felt something hard in one spoonful of the food, but had swallowed it easily before he began to think seriously of it. The operation and his death followed.

Douglas, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas were married. The officiating minister being the Rev. Percy Halstead, B.A., B.D., of Rosebud. The ceremony was to have been held on the beautiful lawn on the homestead, but the weather being inclement the home was arranged as a veritable "Lovers' Bower" with a profusion of flowers and suitable decorations. The bridegroom was supported by his nephew, Edw. Fuller, while the bride was Elsie, sister of the bride. To the strains of "Lohengrin" played by Miss Peggy Adams, Drumseller, the bride entered on the arm of her father. While the register was being signed Miss Adams entertained with some classical music. She was accompanied on the piano by the Rev. P. Halstead. A sumptuous repast was enjoyed, and the usual toasts were responded to in time honored fashion. The bride looked like a charming dress of white georgette with veil and orange blossoms, and carried a lovely bouquet of roses. Her going-away dress was tan with touches of Paisley with coat and hat to match.

Word was received by the family of H. C. Barr, of Redland, of the sad news of the death of Mrs. Barr's mother, Mrs. James E. Barr, at her home in Pittsburgh, Pa., on May 22nd. Through her frequent visits with her daughter, Mrs. Barr had many acquaintances in this district, who will be very sorry to learn of her death. Mrs. Barr was called to the bedside of her mother last winter, and spent a couple of months with her.

WEDDING

KENNEY-POST

A very pretty wedding took place in the Rockyford United Church on Wednesday afternoon, June 6th, at 2 o'clock, when Miss Paula Louise, second daughter of Mr. E. W. Post, was united in marriage to Mr. Edward Kenney, eldest son of Mr. Edward Kenney, of 127 21st Ave. West, Calgary.

Previous to the ceremony Mrs. C. G. Hockin rendered several musical numbers on the organ. To the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, the bride entered the church on the arm of her father, followed by the bridesmaids, joining the groom waiting at the altar.

The church was decorated with ferns, and lavender and white lilies. The groom was attended by his brother, Mr. Donald Kenney, while Mr. Fred Schaffer and Mr. Edward Griffiths acted as ushers.

Rev. C. G. Hockin performed the ceremony, while the bride was given in marriage by her father.

Miss Emily Post, sister of the bride and maid of honor, and Miss Pauline McFarlane as bridesmaid, wore pale pink georgette with picture lace to match, and carried bouquets of pink carnations.

The bride's dress was of turquoise blue georgette, trimmed in eury lace, made bouffant style, with lace picture hat to match. She carried a shower bouquet of roses and orange blossoms.

After the ceremony a buffet luncheon was served in the Post home to a few intimate friends and relatives. The groom's gift to the bride was a bracelet, to each of the bridesmaids a flower ring, while the best man received a gold nugget tie-pin.

The bride's going-away dress was of navy flat crepe with sand hat.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenney left by motor for a short honeymoon in Banff and other points west. Upon their return they will reside on their farm near Redland.

Their many friends wish them success and happiness in "the great adventure."

Their wedding will be long remembered, not only for the severe hail storm which struck the town while the assembled guests in the church waited the bride's arrival, but also as the first wedding held in the Rockyford United Church.

Miss Post will be greatly missed here as a leader of the younger set, and by the Church and Sunday School where she was a willing and efficient worker. As a tribute to her, her school was dismissed for an hour so as to enable her Sunday School class to attend her wedding in a body.

M. D. Grasswold Hold Meeting

A regular meeting of the Council of the Municipal District was held on June 2nd, Councilors Smith, Horn, Gregory, Pedersen and Brunner were present.

Mr. Cameron, the Provincial field supervisor being present at the meeting, gave an interesting talk on the control of weeds, and urged the council to use every endeavor to combat weeds. It was then on motion decided that three meetings be held, one at Rosebud, one at Standard, and one at Rosebud, to discuss ways and means to combat all noxious weeds.

It was on motion decided that the Road division north of the Canadian National Railway in Section 25, Town 25, Range 21, West of the 5th Meridian, be closed for the time being, due to the fact that there is no bridge and that the road is not safe for travel.

DALEMEAD

Mrs. H. Thompson left on Saturday for an extended trip to Alaska. She will be accompanied by her brother who lives in Ontario.

The novelty dance given by the Social Club on June 8th, was well attended. Bolter's orchestra furnished the music.

Mr. Orton has been very ill by having his tonsils removed, but is improving in the present, and expects to be home again soon.

The U.F.A. services will be held on June 17th at the Carleton bridge, Blind Creek, Carleton and Dalemead will unite. Rev. Longmire will be the services.

On Monday occurred the death of Doris Caldwell, the two-year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Caldwell. She had been sick with measles and contracted a septic throat, which caused her death. The funeral services were conducted by the Rev. George Dickson, of Knox United Church, and held at Slater's undertaking parlors. There was a large attendance by relatives and friends. The community extends their sympathy to the bereaved parents.

A basket demonstration given by Miss Knox from Edmonton for the U.F.A. was not as well attended as might have been owing to bad roads. Those who took part were well pleased with the work. We hope to have Miss Knox with us again in the near future for another demonstration.

ALBERTA W. I. F. FACE PROBLEM OF SUPPORT CALGARY—For the first time since the Women's Institutes were organized in Alberta 16 years ago, these organizations are faced with the problem of entirely supporting themselves. This has come about since the passing of the Alberta Women's Bureau act, which will come into effect July 1.

The Alberta Women's Institutes must now meet all the expenses of administration, finance their own conventions and board meetings, supply stationery and clerical services, etc. This was the announcement made by Mrs. W. Huxley, provincial president, in her address at the morning session of the fourteenth annual convention.

SCANDAL

A woman to a holy father went. Confession of sin was her intent; And so her misdeeds, great and small, She faithfully rehearsed them all, And, chiefest in her catalogue of sin, She owned that she a tale-bearer had been.

And borne a bit of scandal up and down To all the long-tongued gossip of the town. The holy father for other sins Granted the absolution asked of him; But while for all the rest he pardon gave, He told her this offence was very grave.

And that to do it penance she must go Out by the wayside where the thistles grow.

And gather the largest, ripest one, Scatter its seed, and that when this was done She must come back again another day.

To tell him his commands she did obey.

The woman, thinking this a penance easy, Hastened to do his will that very night.

Feeling right glad she has escaped so well, Next day but one she went the priest to tell;

The priest at once still and heard her story through.

Then said: "There's something still for you to do; These little thistle-seeds which you have sown, I bid you reappear every one."

The woman said: "But, father, 'twould be vain To try to gather up those seeds again The winds have scattered them both far and wide."

Over the meadowed vale and mountain-side.

The father answered: "Now, I hope from this The lesson I have taught you will not miss;

You cannot gather back the scattered seeds Which far and wide will grow to noxious weeds.

Nor can the mischief again by scandal sown. By any penance be again undone."

CANADIAN PRODUCTS WANTED IN ENGLAND

MONTREAL.—England wants Canadian foodstuffs. A huge, potential demand exists for our products over there, and it remains for us to take full advantage of the opportunities," said Harry A. Scott, Canadian Government Trade Commissioner for the North of England, who arrived in Montreal.

"The North of England, with some 17,000,000 people, constitutes one of the most complex and highly industrialized regions of the world, and is responsible for well over one-third of the total trade of the United Kingdom. Being primarily an industrial area, it is difficult for Canada to compete in manufactured goods, but there is an enormous demand for foodstuffs to feed its workers and for raw and semi-raw materials for its industries.

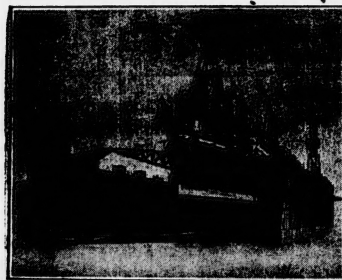

"Canadian grain (wheat particularly), meat products, dairy products, canned goods, fresh and dried fruits and timber have already established a reputation for quality. It only remains for us to maintain that quality and to increase our available supplies in order to keep them before the British public throughout the year.

"England wants Canadian foodstuffs. From personal experience during the past three years I can testify to the steadily increasing interest being taken by the British public generally in purchasing Empire products, and, while it is appreciated that market conditions in Canada have lately made it difficult for our exporters to cater to British requirements, I would like to emphasize that a huge potential demand exists for our products, and it remains for us to take full advantage of the opportunities afforded."

CHESTER WHITE SOWS MADE PUR SHOWING

The undesirable quality of a number of the Chester White sows recently introduced into the Province, is indicated by a recent occurrence on the Calgary stockyards, when nine of these animals were shipped back to the yards from a town in the central part of the province where they were being held for sale to farmers in the district. Of these nine sows, which had been shipped from the United States as breeding females, five sold on the Calgary market as "shops" at $6.10 per hundred and the remaining four graded "thick smooths" and sold at $8.50 per hundred, the price for select bacon hogs on the same day being $10.10 per hundred pounds.

TWO GIANTS OF SHIPPING CIRCLES

The Canadian Pacific liner "Empress of Australia" is seen in the huge floating drydock at Southampton, England, where she was placed for inspection after her South America-Africa cruise. This dock bears the reputation of being the largest of its kind in the world with a length over all of 960 feet, width at the point of entrance being 354 feet and the depth of water over the keel blocks is 58 feet.

HEARD ON THE STREET

Jim Moran has invented a new portable work bench which he has named the "Edu Automatic," though he is not sure of the automatic part of it.

Boy Scout: "We found your ball, Mr. Dunn, but we couldn't find the wallet."

Fred Dunn: "Thanks awfully. It was the ball I wanted. I find I didn't lose my wallet, after all."

The orderly sergeant with the office of the day entered the dining room. "Any complaints," roared the sergeant.

Recruit: "Yes, sir. These ere tables are bad."

Other (inquiringly): "Tables? Tables?"

Sergeant Bill Tierney: "The man is ignorant. He means spuds, sir."

Adv. in a Scotch paper: "Wanted, a robust, God-fearing Scotch nurse, who can teach the shorter cutesies and has a working knowledge of the business side of a slipper, to take charge of a four-year-old boy who has a double dose of original sin."

Innocent Wife: "What is this ticket, darling?"

Hubby: "Only a pawn ticket."

Innocent Wife: "Why didn't you get two, then we could both go."

Teacher: "Vincent, give me a sentence using the word diadem."

Vincent: "People who do not stop look and listen at a railway crossing will probably find them sight quicker than they expect."

"Where have you been, Alf?"

"Down to Rexall Red's."

"Didn't ask you to beat that rug?"

"I didn't so understand you. You said to take the rug out, hang it on the line, and beat it. I did."

"Is that the latest gown Miss Blah has on?"

"It is the latest for this time of the day, this season of the year, and this kind of event."

Father: "Be so good as to finish your oatmeal, son. You should be ashamed of yourself; how many poor wretches would be happy to get as little as half of that oatmeal!"

Son: "Me, too."

Dooley: "Did your last employer give you a reference?"

Casey: "Yes, but it does not seem to be any good."

Dooley: "What did he say?"

Casey: "He said I was one of the best men his firm had ever turned out."

Solicitor, at Court: "Is your husband here?"

Woman: "No; I can say all that is necessary."

Jim Weir: "Sorry, I've nothing to suit you, lady, but I could get some more patterns down from the factory tomorrow."

Lady: "Yes, do, and ask them to send some very small design suitable for the floor of a bird cage."

Harold Smith is an industrious cun and while off duty often gives a dry good to a friend of his, helping hand. Yesterday morning Miss Urs Peech, who likes to make purchases when Harold is on duty, went up to buy some goods for a dress.

"I want it to be pink," she says. So Smithy got down the only piece of pink they had, but Urs shook her head and says, "No, that won't do. I don't want wash goods."

"Well," said Smithy, as though a bright thought had just struck him, "you needn't wash it if you don't want it."

Miss Uppen Cummin heard that Mrs. Peech had had an accident, so she called up to ask how it happened and how she was and all and Urs answered the telephone. Her man heard her say, "Why, she had a fall. I don't know, she just fell." So when she hung up her man says, "Why, Urs, didn't you tell her that I tripped on my dress?"

"Ma!" says Urs, "do you s'pose I was going to admit to her of all people that you wear your dresses that long? Nothing doing!"

Betty Jane was invited to a party but they didn't invite Ruth, an Betty Jane didn't overlook a chance to rub it in. But Ruth had to pretty well till the afternoon of the party an when she seen Amy taking Betty out in a broad new white dress, and Betty Jane looking terribly smart, she just simply couldn't stand it any longer, so she walked over to the desk and got the bottle of ink.

A friend of Bill Tierney's went to a doctor about his weight and had been ordered upon a 4-day fast. A glass of orange juice twice a day—nothing more. On the night of the third day the man awoke from a nap in which he had dreamed that a thick, medium rare breakfast had been set before him. Restlessly he went for a stroll in the park, casting hungry, covetous glances at every youth with a peanut and every babe with a nursing bottle. Suddenly he was accosted by an individual who said: "Say, boss, you couldn't give a poor fellow a dime, could you? I haven't had anything to eat since this morning."

A newcomer in Los Angeles smacked of his lips longingly and conjured up visions of a glass of foaming lager. "Say," he said finally to a passer-by, "I'm simply dying of thirst. Isn't there any place in this forsaken town where I can get a drink?"

The native eyed him for a moment and then leisurely pointed his finger. "See that millinery store across the street?" he asked.

"Yes."

"Well, that's the only place in town you can't."

John Vermont—How does it happen that there are such an awful lot of jokes on the Scotch?

John, the Bulgarian—I know the secret. The Scotch get them up themselves and sell them.

An army chaplain, meeting a Scotchman who had taken a "drop too much" offered to guide him to the barracks.

On the way Jack became discursive. "Ye ken, chaplain," he remarked, "my father is a very religious man, and I'm that way inclined myself. Noo, I'd like to have a bit of an argument wi' ye on predestination."

The chaplain was much amused. "Hadin' you better wait until you are sober, Jack?" he asked.

"Hoot, mon," said the Scotchman, "I dinna care a d— about predestination when I'm sober."

A rather droll woman found herself sitting beside a well known surgeon at a social dinner. He was not a talkative man, and, try as she might, the old lady could not think of any conversation.

At last she had an idea. "Should I call you Dr. Blank, or Mr. Blank?" she asked, with a charming smile.

"Call me anything you like," replied the doctor, and added genially, "Some of my friends call me an old fool."

"Ah," she rejoined, not hearing correctly, but anxious to be pleasant those are the people who know you intimately, of course!"

Teacher (noting Vincent's intonation): "What are you doing Vincent? Are you learning anything?"

Vincent: "No, ma'am—er—I mean I was listening to you."

The co-ed wound up her usual fortnightly letter home with the postscript: "Need money."

The girl's father wired back: "Yes, how much can you send?"

Bill Wilkinson: "Did you have an assistant in this robbery?"

Hobo: "No. I 'ad one once, but I 'ad to dismiss 'im—'s was dishonest!"

The elderly lady was comfortably

"Do you think that's a very safe place to sit, ma'am?" asked Fred J. Dunn.

"Oh, yes, it's perfectly all right," beamed the dear lady, "you see, I'm sitting on a newspaper."

Bill Tierney (reminiscently): Once we captured a big Bertha that had been throwing duds over our line.

Lady Friend: Why didn't she hang them on her own line?

Gene: I don't know which girl to take to the game.

Alf, Carlson: Why don't you flip a coin?

Gene: I did, but it didn't come out right.

A couple presented themselves before a justice of the peace and requested that the marriage ceremony be performed. The judge asked the usual questions as to names, place of residence, age, etc., when he noticed behind the lady a little child of two years. "How about this little miss?" he asked.

"I'll tell you how that is, judge," said the man. "You see, we were going to get married three years ago, but the roads were so darned bad we couldn't get to town."

J. R. Clynes: "If we outlaw war, we must discard the weapons of war—and we must destroy the war mortality."

PARLIAMENT MAY BE GIVEN NEW RECORD

LONDON.—Acute differences of opinion were expressed by members of the Anglican Liberal Association on the advisability of nominating Miss Megan Lloyd George, daughter of the former premier of Britain, as Liberal candidate at the next election in the constituency, which is at present represented in the House of Commons by Sir R. Thomas, Liberal. Finally Miss Lloyd George received the nomination by a vote of 122 to 45.

The decision of the Anglican Liberals holds out the prospect of a new parliamentary record being established with a father, son and daughter sitting in the House of Commons.

INTERRED DOCTOR GETS $15,000 REPARATIONS

OTTAWA.—When the Germans captured Dr. H. S. Beland, a Canadian physician, at Antwerp early in the war, they found he was British and refused him passports out of the country, unless he would undertake never to serve against the German emperor. Dr. Beland, sooner than make such a promise, spent three years as a prisoner in a German fortress, and as a result his health was seriously impaired.

Commissioner Pugsley awarded him $12,000 reparations, but Commissioner Friel cut this to $1,700. Therefore Dr. Beland, who later became minister of D.S.C.B., put in a claim for health impairment with reports from eminent physicians. On this ground he has been awarded $15,000 additional to his $1,700.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY
The best men are not those who have waited for chance, but who have taken them—be- lieved the chance, conquered the chance, and made the chance their servitor.—Chapin.

WE LIVE IN THE RESTLESS AGE

One of the outstanding characteristics of the present age is its restlessness, says the Toronto Globe. The marks of feverish activity and a desire for change are manifested everywhere. Men and women are oppressed with a desire to be up and going, and if asked where they want to go they can only reply in the words of a child's rhyme, "Anywhere, anywhere—don't care." This phase of human life was emphasized the other day by the President of the Women's Auxiliary of the Missionary Society of the Church of England in her annual address in Toronto when she said: "Then there is the alarming desire for freedom from ties and responsibilities, the destruction of houses for flats, the growing use of motors, the increasing restlessness which makes this 'a moving age' and is gaining people in the desire for freedom to drop things at a moment's notice and go to Florida or the East Indies to get round the world, or, if possible, to Mars. Travelling has become easy and luxurious; no one risks even discomfort in it, and those who can afford it wish to be free just to look the door and go off. Of course, it is a practice which robs life of reality; we have that for which we think and provide, and the person without ties and duties is more unfortunate than the 'landless man,' no pitted in the Middle Ages. The temptation is great to see the world and escape monotony and taste the new and gain what we call experience, and it is undermining the solid sense of duty upon which a society like our own has been built. The truth of this statement must be apparent to all. It is not by any means a healthy sign of modern life. The old life of the nation that had its roots in the home and was characterized by a cheerful acceptance of the commonplace drudgery of daily tasks is to a great extent passing away. Men and women are deceiving themselves that they can escape the drudgery of life by simply moving from one place to another as fancy dictates, and where this is not possible they live in a continual rest and perpetual stagnation. The irony of the situation is that the distant fields that looked so green are found to be mere and empty, and the restless ones come up to them, and the dreary process of moving on is again repeated. Such people need to realize that peace, happiness and contentment can be found at their own doors, and if they are not found there they need not be sought anywhere else.

MECHANICAL CLERKS TO SERVE PATRONS OF CHAIN STORES
NEW YORK—A new "robot" that will say "Thank you," make change and perform other functions of a human sales clerk, will be placed in chain stores and other selling agencies soon as a result of the formation of a $2,500,000 company, representing a consolidation of the principal automatic merchandising companies of the United States, backed by Wall Street interests. Through a photographic arrangement now being worked out by technical experts, an automaton will be manufactured which will sell a wide variety of articles for coins dropped into slot machines. Until the perfection of the new machine the present devices for the sale of articles by slot machines will be used.
Made by Remington
The new company, to be known as the Consolidated Merchandising Corporation, will use machines manufactured by the Remington Arms Company. Companies involved in the consolidation include the Automatic Merchandising Corporation of America, which was formed recently as an amalgamation of the United Cigar Stores Company; the Sanitary Postage Service Corporation, which makes automatic postage machines, and the General Vending Corp., operating 26,000 automatic vending machines, and holding a contract through its subsidiary, the Hot Vending Corporation of America, for the sale of walk-in chewing gum and confections.
Many Machines Placed
The company plans eventually to establish the equivalent of automatic department stores. The automatic vending machines will be placed in retail store locations, and it is also planned to rent additional space for the machines in office buildings, railway stations, steamship and bus stations. One or more of the machines to be manufactured will be placed in chain stores of the Woolworth Company, Liggett Drug Company, Walgreen Drug Company, J. C. RICH GOLD STRIKE NEAR FORT WILLIAM

PORT WILLIAM—No such gold-bearing quartz has been reported as taken from a vein in this section of Ontario in the last 25 years as that said to have come from the new strike which was made recently on the Kable's Island, adjoining the Golden Star, owned by the Northern Lake Mines. Samples were brought to the city by E. Macdonell, M.E., engineer in charge of the Golden Star Mine. The vein, he said, is six and a half feet wide, and has been traced on the surface for 500 feet. He predicted an assay as high as $5,000 per ton on some of the richest samples.
That Kable's Island has an immense gold mine right at its doors was the statement made by W. S. Jackson, after returning from the Savage Lake gold field, where he has been nine months working on the surface development of the claims held by the Jackson Syndicate, including the share of the old Walsh property and the Jesuit claims, originally stated by Father April, S.J. He opined these properties would rank with the Beck, Hughes, McIntyre and Hollinger. He has stripped the vein at the old shaft, and declares it to be 1,500 feet long, 12 feet wide, and runs for two and a half miles across the claims. Mr. Jackson is going to ask for an engineer's examination.

BIG ENGLISH ESTATE IS SOLD LOT BY LOT

LONDON—An example of the old story changing in the matter of English land ownership was afforded under rather unusual circumstances Thursday when, by lot, a great part of the quaint little town of Amersham, Buckinghamshire, came under the auctioneer's hammer. Cottages, rectory and residences, and shops were sold. Every tenant property to the sale had been given an opportunity of purchasing the cottage he occupied and 70 cottagers acquired themselves of this.
For generations the property had been owned by the Drake family.

See the "72" romp away from them all.

While practically every car that runs is patterned after Chrysler—the Illustrious "72" continues to romp away from and around them all in every phase of performance. Which can and does mean only one thing, of course—that since it can quickly be proven that Chrysler "72" excels every car which seeks to compete with it without a single exception, it unmistakably gives the greatest monetary and performance return which exists in the world motor-car market today.

THE SAYINGS AND DOINGS OF MANY PUBLIC MEN

Julia W. Wolfe: "Appreciation involves obedience to the higher law under which all men are fellow workers and fellow servants, and which obliterate all distinctions of rank and position as such, and emphasizes only the common end and the common duty."

Sir Harold Macintosh: "I believe the press is the best form of publicity. In advertising in the daily press you share in the good will of the paper. The man who reads a paper takes it because he likes it, and he has confidence in it. Advertisers share in that good will."

George Bernard Shaw: "What is the use of all this fighting? After fighting you sit down and negotiate peace. Although I do not know much about these things, I think it would be better if the process were reversed, and then perhaps there would be no necessity to fight."

J. C. Penney: "If men only said 'Good morning' and 'How are you?' with a deep personal interest in each other's wellbeing, it would not be long before bitter criticism, stinging rebukes and harsh denunciations would cease."

Winston Churchill: "England is not done yet. She still has the power to help a friend or pay a debt."

Sir John Simon: "The day may come when the Imperial Conference may be held with the help of television and beam wireless, with each Dominion statesman sitting among his own colleagues in his own country, contributing moment to moment to a common discussion in a common place."

W. O. Stillman: "The most creditable feeling in the human breast is the desire to help another. It is not beneath the dignity of civilized men to help their unfortunates or laborers."

J. I. Garvin: "Women throughout the world should throw themselves more seriously than they have yet done into the crusade against war. As rights extend, duties must approximate."

David Lloyd George: "I am not one of those who say Britain is done for. She has still got the greatest international trade in the world. We have recovered 70 per cent of the international trade which we had before the war."

John Cowley: "There are many firms in England producing some of the best goods in the world, but owing to some old-fashioned notion or aversion to publicity, they deliberately hinder the progress of their business by failing to devote attention to this method of making known the merits of their products."

Sir Joseph Flavelle: "We need, in all the affairs that are of first-class importance, to be careful that the letter does not kill the spirit, for it is the spirit that is life, whether it is in farming on the prairies or carrying on in the cities and towns."

Sir Edward Perry: "In woman's own sphere, domestic service, which is a skilled profession, women have an industry where high wages can be obtained and a training which fits them to reign with intelligence and success in a household of their own."

Premier Baldwin: "Canada cherishes what I regard not only as the best of our ideals, but those which are absolutely necessary to be cherished, if by democracy to survive and is not to become anarchy and chaos. I found that Canada is maintaining the standards and the value of education."

In Canada the work in the universities in the east is as good as the work in the best universities of Europe. I almost tell you what it is to go out from Europe into a country that not only has no hereditary problems hanging like millstones around its neck, but where everyone is full of hope and where I met no 'grazers.' Canada has an enormous future before her, but if it is no importance on my part to say one word to Canadians I would say, 'The future is with you; do not be in too much of a hurry. Your country is a country for men from the north, the hardy, virile races. Quality before quantity any day. Build up with the best. What does it matter if it is 100 years or 200 years or more before your country is fully?'"

Sir William Johnson-Turner: "We fulfil the youth of today are 'what men of the future will be.' It is uplifting. Perhaps the value of work is not limited on today as it should be."

Sir William Beveridge: "The individual lives in vain, a life of drift and clutter, who has not in himself a center of calm unswayed by daily turmoil, unscathed by success and failure."

POOR DYING SCOTLAND IN A SAD STATE

The world had the decay of Scotland not been in their veins. Men like Thomas Carlyle, Sir William Hamilton, poet old Henry Bell was a little old steamship Comet, Lord Kelvin, a poor old scientist who couldn't even — undoubtedly because he was a Glasgow man—remember the multiplication table; Andrew Lang, who was a sort of literary fellow—the same sort as Hugh Miller, Robertson Nicol, Dr. Chalmers (we put them in just as they come), Patrick Geddes,
Sir David Wylie, Murdoch Bone, J.
M. Harris, Lord Haldane, Ramsay
MacDonald; and to go back a bit—
James Thomson, Allan Ramsay, David
Swinton, Hutcheson, Bain, Robertson, Hunter, and Johnny Dewar. The names of these obscure Scots, from a lying nation, crowd into the mind—
Conis, the hatter, Lord Cochrane, and we must—Edward Caird, John Smalley, Oskar Macpherson—shut down on them with a—Jamie Home (first hand, Gaelic)! If they weren't despised they'd go right on over us.

As Messrs Thompson and Grierson so truthfully state, hundreds of thousands of Scots have shaken the air dust—Liddesdale, Terelldale—"of poor old miserable Scotland—"there's a wee bit land, an' it's far away"— off their feet—"years have elapsed.

Lochnagar, since I saw thee"— and fortune across the sea. But because they are under the degrading bible of Scotland many of them did n't do so well as they might have done. We need go no farther than Canada to prove what a terrible handicap the entrenched Scotch blood has been to some of our settlers.

There was John A. Macdonald! It is true John A. became in a modest way a figure in Canada, but his Scottish origins would not down, and poor Sir John lived and died in the Tory Party. Then there was William Lyon Macdonald, who started a rebellion and had a famous time, but in still, somehow, remembered in this Dominion. And old John Sinclair, founder of Aberdeen, who arrived in Ontario with one suit of clothes and who died a Bishop, but whose life really was a failure because they took of province away from him—after a quite terrible battle—from Aberdeen, we say, he came, and Donald Smith, and George Brown, and Alexander Mc-Culloch—poor wretch, despised Scotch-and Schirck, who died a ruined man, although indeed he did lay the cornerstone of our own dear West; and all those crazy Macnabes, and Sinclairs, and Gourlays who fill the leading pages of our Nation's story—tottering businessmen, Messrs Thompson and Grierson's case is proved in Canada to the very hilt of the fact. Scotch decendants: to make a little Latin of our own.

We have only just begun our proof of the ruin and mental dereliction and physical degeneracy of Scotland, and our whole space is gone. There are the ballads and the love-sonnets, Anne, and Mary, and Jessie—and the 12th man, and the pipe music, and the rebellions, and the massacres—
Messrs Prince Charlie, and Flora Macdonald—these other great leaders of despised Scottish life still to produce as evidence of the melancholy decline of Scotland. The Scot, as he conceals the 12th man, and the pipe music, and Grierson's case is proved in Canada to the very hilt of the fact. Scotch decendants: to make a little Latin of our own.
